ACM member museums have the option to participate in the ACM Reciprocal Program. A children's museum membership that includes ACM Reciprocal privileges means that the privileges extend ONLY to children's museums within the ACM Reciprocal Network and not to all children's museums.

The museum you visit has a right to reasonably restrict the number of members and guests that may receive free admission from the Reciprocal Program. The number of members allowed complimentary entry at a museum you visit may be different than your home museum's membership policy.

* Please call museums in advance of your visit to inquire about their admissions policy and check the hours that they are open to the public.

Visit www.ChildrensMuseums.org, or ask your local children's museum for more information.
