REAL ESTATE EXECUTIVE JOINS LONG ISLAND CHILDREN'S MUSEUM BOARD

Scott Burman, Principal, Engel Burman Group, a privately held real estate development and construction company in Garden City, has joined the Board of Trustees of Long Island Children's Museum. Burman, a resident of Lloyd Harbor, NY, was elected to a three-year board term. The appointment was announced at the Museum's recent Annual Meeting.

In announcing the appointment, LICM President Suzanne LeBlanc said, "Scott Burman is known for putting his energy and his expertise in institutions that make significant difference to Long Island and its future. We are pleased that he has made the Children's Museum one of his priority organizations." LeBlanc added, "As the Museum embarks on a new Strategic Long Range Plan, Scott will be a valued contributor in shaping LICM's growth.

In discussing his appointment, Burman said, "I'm proud to join the LICM Board of Trustees and to support an institution that enriches the lives of young people; LICM has had a tangible impact on Long Island's youth over two generations. Understanding and promoting cultural and educational assets is inherently integral to the growth, prosperity and the future of Long Island."

As the President of Engel Burman Construction, he manages a pipeline of approximately a half billion dollars in various types of construction projects. Over the past 16 years, he has leveraged his extensive professional experience overseeing various aspects of business development and operations in a variety of business sectors.

Burman is a founding Partner of Paramount Realty USA, a real estate auction company headquartered in Manhattan, which represents real estate owners and developers in the accelerated marketing and sale of all types of real estate via auction.

He sits on the Association for a Better Long Island's Associate Board (ABLI). He is the recipient of the Long Island Business News' 2010 Award for "Rising Star in Commercial Development," a member of their "40 under 40" class of 2011 and a past President of the Long Island Real Estate Group (LIREG). Scott and Bianca Burman have been active supporters of Long Island Children's Museum; in 2016 they were Honorees of the Museum's annual Cupcakes & Cocktails fundraiser.

Scott Burman received Bachelor of Science Degrees in Finance and Marketing from the New York University Stern School of Business.

Suzanne Brienza, Director of Revenue Operations at PSEG Long Island will join Burman as a new trustee on the Long Island Children's Museum board.

About the Long Island Children's Museum

The mission of the Long Island Children's Museum is to connect all our communities' children, and those who care for them, to a life of wonder, imagination and exploration. At LICM, children discover their passions and their relationship to the world we share. The 40,000-square-foot museum welcomes nearly 250,000 children and adults annually. The private, not-for-profit institution chartered by the New York State Board of Regents, offers museum-based educational programs and cultural experiences, as well as an extensive community outreach program offered in schools, libraries and youth centers across Long Island. The Museum is the recipient of the 2012 National Medal for Museum & Library Service, the highest honor conferred on museums for extraordinary civic, educational, economic, environmental, and social contributions.
